

Introduction

1 The University of Law (the University) is committed to equality, diversity and inclusion.

Recognising that not all people identify along a binary gender identity and that people's gender identity is not necessarily known from the way their expression is "read" by others, this policy creates a way for people to make their preferred forms of address known instead of relying upon assumption. Indicating your pronouns is a personal choice and entirely voluntary, however all university students have a responsibility to be aware of this policy and alert to someone indicating their pronouns.

2 The Student Association are here to support you. If you have any queries regarding this policy please do not hesitate to contact the Student Association for advice or further information. If you are experiencing any emotional impact/distress relating to the use of personal pronouns whilst at the University your personal tutors and campus Welfare Service are available to support you further. The University of Law requires all students and staff to respect the rights and dignity of others. Harassment, bullying or victimisation on the grounds of any of the protected characteristics laid out in the Equality Act 2010 is prohibited. Harassment can take a variety of different forms; for example, due to gender identification, sexual orientation, marital status, race, colour, ethnic origin, age, religion or belief, disability or any other aspect. The University will not tolerate any forms of harassment. For more information see the University Bullying and Harassment Policy (Q4.14).

3 This policy applies to all those who are a student at The University of Law. For the purposes of this policy, a student is defined as anyone who has accepted a place at the University or is currently studying at the University.

4. This policy complements the University's Staff Pronouns Policy which applies to all those who work at The University of Law, and any other applicable company.

Responsibility for this policy

5 Ultimate responsibility for the development of clear and effective processes and procedures associated with the maintenance of standards and quality assurance of academic provision and overseeing their application lies with the Academic Board.

What are pronouns?

6 We all use pronouns as part of everyday conversation. A pronoun is a word that refers to either

7 Gender pronouns (such as “he/him/his” and “she/her/hers”) refer to people that you are talking about. Gender pronouns are the way that we constantly refer to each other’s gender identity - except we often don’t think a whole lot about them. Usually we interpret or “read” a person’s gender based on their outward appearance and expression, and “assign” a pronoun. But our reading may not be a correct interpretation of the person’s gender identity.

Why pronouns are important

8 Nothing may be more personal than the way in which people refer to us through our name and pronouns. Using a person’s chosen name and desired pronouns is a form of mutual respect and basic courtesy. We believe that everyone deserves to have their self-ascribed name and pronouns respected in the university.

9 Students who don’t identify with gendered pronouns may use gendered expansive pronouns such as “they, them and theirs” instead of the gendered “he, him and his” or “she, her and hers.” (For a list of common pronouns see Appendix B). In addition, gendered honorifics such as “Ms.” or “Mr.” may change to the more inclusive “Mx.”

10 Students can choose to make their pronouns known in various ways, as detailed in the section below. Indicating your pronouns is a personal choice, however

- When you introduce someone use their pronouns, so others will learn them, e.g. “This is Sam, they study the LPC. This is Sarah, she studies the LLB”
- Listen to how people speak about themselves and follow suit, e.g. if they say something like “people always say ‘he’s interesting’ when they meet me”
- Their pronouns may be detailed underneath their email signature if you have received an email from them.
- If you are not sure, ask people what their pronouns are. Eg. “Sorry, I didn’t catch your pronouns”.
